

DESIGNER, BRAND ENVIRONMENTS
CHUTE GERDEMAN, INC. | COLUMBUS, OH USA*POSITION OVERVIEW

Working within the Brand Environments Studio, Brand Environments Designers are key members of each project team. They work collaboratively with team members from various creative studios to develop effective and innovative solutions for a diverse array of clients.

Specific activities include creating viable conceptual ideas through image boards, sketching, rendering, space planning, color, finish and material specification, design intent documentation, resource coordination and supporting client presentations.

Brand Environments Designers enjoy and excel at all phases of the creative process, from brainstorming through execution, all within multi-discipline teams. They love to sketch, and their computer is a tool to complete their ideas rather than generate them. Brand Environments Designers know how to work methodically and creatively at the same time; creating big ideas and considering the smallest details. They are able to grasp creative direction, ask appropriate questions and deliver more than what is expected. Brand Environments Designers have an appetite for learning and a can-do attitude, and they are confident and can persuasively communicate their ideas.

As a Brand Environments Designer, a great deal of importance will be placed on a high level of curiosity and awareness of the retail world around us.
